PROFESSIONAL OVERVIEW

Pam Reaves, PCC, is a Leadership and Career Coach, Certified Mentor Coach, Facilitator, and ICF Coach Educator who helps professionals at all levels lead with greater clarity, confidence, and purpose—whether they're stepping into new roles, navigating transitions, or shaping what's next in their career.

With more than 25 years of experience in corporate operations, Pam understands the internal shifts required to move from contributor to leader, and from leader to legacy-builder. She works with mid-level professionals, people managers, and emerging leaders to strengthen their leadership presence, communicate with impact, and align their work with their personal values—without burning out in the process.

Pam also supports credentialing coaches as a mentor and educator, helping them integrate ICF Core Competencies into a coaching presence that feels authentic and sustainable. Her dual lens—as both a coach and career development partner—allows her to support clients holistically across the leadership journey, from career clarity and role readiness to executive presence and influence.

She's known for her thoughtful, grounded coaching style that creates space for reflection, strategy, and growth—meeting clients where they are while helping them lead where they want to go.

When she's not coaching or facilitating, Pam finds peace in slow mornings with her journal, meaningful conversations that challenge comfort zones, and curating moments of calm in a fast-moving world.
